Coconut & Vanilla is a bilingual English/ German food blog with focus on responsible minded cooking from seasonal and preferred regional food. This is particularly emphasized in the popular blog posts of my market purchases and the cultivation of my own piece of land. Inspired by my passion for travel, I cook all over the continents whilst trying to avoid processed food and instead making it myself. (Culinary) travel reviews, cookbook recommendations and recommendations about kitchen tools are part of my strategy to provide my readers with the best palate pleasure at home!

Get to know me better on the „About“ page of my blog.

Advertising with Coconut & Vanilla is possible. My position is independent and always my own. I only write about products which I have tested and/ or believe in.

Respecting sustainability I kindly ask you not to send me any products without prior consent.
